"The amount now offered the government to drop the investigation and probable prosecution is $260,000," said Mr. Loeb.

"The amount represents what would be penalized. All offers have been refused. We want the smugglers."

It is said that worry over this case so affected the mind of William B. Bainbridge, confidential agent of the United States treasury in Paris, that he committed suicide. The treasury department had fully approved Mr. Bainbridge's course in this case, but he left a note declaring he was the victim of a plot.

Idaho Mining Decision

(Special to The Herald.)

Boise, Ida., April 19.—The supreme court of the state, in an opinion handed down today, held that the provision of the constitution which provides that "dues for any private corporation shall be secured by such means as shall be prescribed by law, but in no case shall any stockholder be individually liable in any amount over and above the amount of stock owned by him," to limit the personal liability of the stockholder, but in no way to limit the power of the corporation to make assessments upon stock fully paid up and to subject such stock to sale in default of the payment of such assessments. Where stock is stamped "non-assessable," the court states assessments cannot be levied. The opinion was in the case of Thomas Wall vs. the Basin Mining company, limited, and others, litigation in which mining men of north Idaho have been greatly interested. The suit was instituted by Wall in the Shoshone county district court to establish the plaintiff's right as a shareholder in the corporation to some 20,-000 shares of stock belonging to him which had been sold in default of an assessment of P4, mills per share. Judgment was entered by Judge Woods in favor of the defendant. This is reversed. The sole question presented on appeal was whether the appellant's stock was subject to assessment and sale,
